FOREWORD

The compilation of this index was made possible through the courtesy of the Hilo Library and Bernice P. Bishop Museum in allowing time for the work. Impetus was found in the need which libraries and individuals have felt for a means of reference to the Hawaiian Annual, and in the opportunity of adding a humble tribute to the memory of Thomas G. Thrum, the unique and admirable scholar who founded the periodical and edited it through 58 years.

The index consists of author and subject entries. Thrum's Annual teems with brief notes, so material on many subjects is listed under general as well as specific headings. Although few articles are signed by Thrum, it is well known that he is the author of most of the unsigned articles. No attempt has been made to credit these to him or to add or verify any other information. Where not otherwise indicated, entries pertain to the Hawaiian islands.

A section called "Register and Directory" at the end of almost every issue of the Annual contains lists of governmental bodies and private institutions, societies, etc., with names of officers. Brief comments made by Mr. Thrum on the happenings of the year, embodied in a section called "Retrospect," are usually placed after special articles. These sections are referred to in the index by year only.

It is impossible to list the names of all those who have given helpful advice, but their kindness and assistance are hereby gratefully acknowledged.
